

BRIAN DICKINSON

SURVIVING BLIND AND ALONE ON EVEREST

Adventurer | Author | Speaker | US Navy Air Rescue Swimmer

As a survival expert and former US Navy Air Rescue Swimmer, Brian Dickinson, delivers one of the most powerful experiences you will ever hear. His story exemplifies what it takes to face adversity and overcome impossible obstacles, leaving audiences inspired to conquer their greatest fears.

In 2011, Brian soloed the summit of Mount Everest, but then went completely snow blind on the descent. Hand over hand he made his way down blind and alone. What should have taken 3 hours to reach high camp, ended up taking him 7 hours. Brian took a major fall down the south summit and eventually ran out of supplemental oxygen, but through determined faith and focus he survived the impossible!

- Plan for things within your control
- Respond to things outside your control
- Overcome adversity in your life
- Push yourself beyond your limits
- Create and maintain perspective

“That’s incredible..it’s a great story” Anderson Cooper, CNN

Partial Client List

Microsoft Corporation
Cisco Systems
Arc’teryx
Presidio
PotomacWave Consulting
Faith-based Organizations

Past Media

CNN Anderson Cooper
CNN Chris Cuomo
ABC Good Morning America
Success Magazine
Varney & Co
Fox Business
Military Times
Weather Channel
KingdomWorks Movie Series
Twitter - top trend
Huffington Post

CONTACT BRIAN

www.briandickinson.net

@briandickinson